

CV Guerra

Dr. Walter Guerra was born in Bolzano South Tyrol. He has a master in Agricultural Sciences at the University of Padova, Italy and in 1999 he started his research work at the Department of Pomology of the University of California Davis, USA. In 2001 he started working at the Research Centre Laimburg where he became Group leader of Pomology and since 2017 Head of the Institute for fruit Growing and Viticulture. Furthermore, he is the Secretary of the EUFRIN apple and pear variety and rootstock testing group, member of the CPVO expert panel for apple, member of the National Academy of Agriculture and member of the variety commission of the South Tyrolean Variety Innovation Consortium. For several years he was appointed as teaching assistant at the University of Bolzano. He has been involved in the former breeding research projects HiDRAS and FruitBreedomics and in the ongoing project INVITE.